It's Begun!

The Dahlia season has begun here at All Dahlia'd Up and we are totally stoked!

With 4th of July behind us and our first bouquets going out I can feel the momentum building and I'm soooo very ready.

On July 11 was my daughters sweet 16 garden party. It was incredibly special and beautiful. Talk about an emotional day for me but I made it. Oh, did I mention my daughter looked AMAZING...the hair, the nails and yes the dress! A close second in beauty was the center pieces I put together. Wish we could have done Dahlias but we just didn't have enough. So it was fireweed, blue daisies and baby's breath to stick with the color scheme.

Starting Monday, July 20 All Dahlia'd Up will be at the Monday Market in Palmer at the Train Depot from 11-6pm. Stop by and pick up some Dahlias for your table, or put your order in.

Our Mission: To Bloom and Share the Miracle and Vibrancy of Life

The Dahlia patch is growing like crazy, lots of flowers and thousands of buds! The Dwarf size Dahlias should be blooming by next week. We even have some we've never grown before getting ready to show their faces. Sure glad I put the landscaping fabric down. Not much weeding to do at all. Now if I only had drip tape instead of soaker hoses, lugging the hoses around is WORK!

A sight to see and heaven to be in.

GAH! I love my life!
